

What is the difference between mylar and vinyl cut decals?

Besides the material (vinyl vs. mylar) there is one other important difference. Vinyl Cut Decals (sometimes called Die Cut Decals) have no material left between the letters when the application is finished. Mylar decals have a clear film between the letters that allows your paint to show through, but you will see the outline of the material. Most customers purchase the mylar decals because of price. If you don't see a vinyl cut decal listed for your model, send us an email and we can see if we are able to special order it. If you are restoring the tractor and have put a good deal of money into the paint, you will probably prefer to have the vinyl cut decals.
